Report on serious offences subject to public prosecution

The offences include violations of international law¹, genocide², terrorism³, and financing of terrorism⁴.

Background

Until March 2011 Libya was a sovereign secular state, ranked by the United Nations as a "High Human Development" country in a global context⁵ (HDI ranking 53 out of 194, ahead of countries like Russia and Brazil) and the most advanced country on the continent of Africa.⁶ As late as Jan 4, 2011 – just weeks before the war started – several UN members applauded Libya's continued commitment to upholding human rights.⁷

Today, seven months later, Libya has – as a result of decisions and actions by individuals i.a. within the Swedish government and Sweden's military forces – been

The council is presently headed by a de facto triumvirate – holding executive/financial/military power:

1. Mahmoud Jibril – a university lecturer educated, and for several years resident, in the US and whose studies was mentored by a renowned CIA case officer working for CIA in Iran during the CIA/staged coup there in 1953.¹⁴
2. An American economics professor by the name of Ali Tarhouni.¹⁵
3. A senior Al-Qaeda asset/educator/leader previously operating in Afghanistan and Iraq but who currently acts under the name of Bel Hadj as the Commander in Chief for the NTC as well as military dictator of Tripoli.¹⁶

On March 19, 2011, two days after the adoption of UN resolution 1973, this NTC/Al-Qaeda/LIFG rebel council announced the creation of a new central bank and a new oil company.¹⁷ Starting a "revolution" with the creation of new central bank may be a possible "first" in world history and casts the long shadow of as yet unidentified international financial actors over the war against Libya.¹⁸

The war

The pretext and framework for the attack on Libya by Sweden and other countries was United Nations resolution 1973. This resolution i.a. authorized a ban on flights and measures "to protect civilians and civilian populated areas" whilst excluding "a foreign occupation force of any form on any part of Libyan territory".¹⁹

The reality is that participants in the NATO-led war already at the outset was in violation of resolution 1973 and that the motive was not to protect civilians – but regime-change.

Testimony by former NATO military commander General Wesley Clarke confirms that as early as 2001, Pentagon was instructed to prepare for war against Libya²⁰ – i.e. long before Libya was reported as a "problem" somehow in need of a "solution".

Thus, the backdrop carries distinct echoes of colonialism,²¹ spiced with the general geostrategical redrawing of the entire Middle-East set in motion by the attacks in the US on September 11, 2001²² and envisaged by the Project for the New American Century (PNAC).²³

The event that is said to have triggered NATO's attack on Libya was the Libyan government's own attempts to restore order and protect civilians in the Benghazi area, where an estimated one thousand jihadists²⁴ (Al-Qaeda/LIFG) had stormed military storage facilities, and armed themselves and started to shoot up the neighbourhood.

Given the miniscule size and poor to non-existent training of this "rebel" contingent,²⁵ the successful containment and disarmament of these rebels by the Libyan government should have been a foregone conclusion – had it not been for the intervention of French and subsequently US airpower on the side of these Al-Qaeda jihadists.²⁶

Since March 31, 2011, NATO has conducted 9658 air strike sorties,²⁷ averaging 46-47 strike missions per day for 207 days. When assessing the gravity of the war crimes reported here this massive air campaign needs to be contrasted against the realities on the ground.

What are these realities?

Even before UN resolution 1973 Libya was reported to have no effective air force.²⁸ Moreover, and in regional terms, Libya did not have much of a military to speak of in the first place.

For example, indicated by the chart below is that whereas neighbouring countries in the first decade of the 21st century escalated their military expenditures – Libya did the opposite.²⁹

²⁹ THE NORTH-AFRICAN MILITARY BALANCE, Anthony H. Cordesman, Aram Nerguizian CSIS, 2010.

In fact, Libya under Qaddafi, was a remarkably constructive factor in the region – being the founding father of the African Union.³⁰

Reported war casualties vary widely.³¹ What is clear is that the involvement of the armed forces of Sweden and other countries not only changed the outcome of what would have been the orderly neutralization of a local fringe Al-Qaeda/LIFG flurry into a full-scale regime-change (for the worse) with a death toll, injured and refugees at a very different order of magnitude.

Some key-points:

- The attack on Tripoli: There are reports that the NTC/Al-Qaeda/LIFG ground assault on Tripoli July 20, 2011, was amphibious (supported by NATO ships) and planned, directed and led by NATO-officers, also on the ground.³² The way in which the reportedly NATO-led rebels were at all able to progress through Tripoli was by NATO Apache attack helicopters strafing the streets to clear it of civilians.³³
- The attack on Sirte:³⁴ Coordinated with NATO's massive bombing campaign against the city were the rebels cordoning off, of it – preventing civilians attempting to escape the carnage from leaving.

Why would the Swedish government, or any other government, for that matter, wish to prevent civilians from escaping an event that by observers ³⁴ http://www.nato.int/cps/en/natolive/news_71994.htm, 2011-09-22. Details found under the heading "Key Hits 22 September" confirms that NATO air missions are in direct support of the Al-Qaeda/LIFG rebels in their attempts to capture Sirte. Cf. <http://www.forsvarsmakten.se/sv/Aktuellt/centralanyheter/Libyeninsatsens-slutdatum-narmar-sig/> : even the media reporting by the Swedish military establishment confirms that Swedish units are acting in violation of UN resolution 1973: Generalmajor Mats Brindsjö: "Now we will fully start to focus on the mission of protecting civilians" ["Nu fokuserar vi helt på uppgiften att skydda civila"].

have been likened with the town of Guernica during the Spanish Civil War?³⁵

The level of popular support enjoyed by the Qaddafi government, as reflected by the resistance of the inhabitants of i.a. Tripoli and Sirte, indicates that the Libyan people in vast numbers view the Qaddafi government as the only legitimate government.³⁶

- Genocide on black Libyans:³⁷ Numerous reports exist on the apparent racist agenda of the NTC/Al-Qaeda/LIFG rebel as they seek out and kill black people.³⁸ Substantiated, as these reports are, the instigators of this as a generic policy in the war may not necessarily have been Al-Qaeda or the LIFG.
- The role of NATO's so-called Special Forces (SF) units: There also exist high-profile testimonies of how Danish and French SF-units engaged in and set up a policy of publicly decapitating black Libyans in order to terrorize the civilian population of Tripoli into submission³⁹ under the capital's newly installed military dictator Bel Hadj.
- The destruction of the Great Man-Made River project:⁴⁰ NATO's wholesale destruction of Libya's world-renowned Great Man-Made River project is a text-book example of crimes against international law. Not only did NATO destroy the world's most advanced water project – it also destroyed the factories capable of repairing this vital civilian infrastructure.
- Use of inhumane weapons such as depleted uranium⁴¹ and cluster bombs:⁴² Evidence points to the possibility of both cluster bombs and depleted uranium being used by NATO in Libya.

- The foreign occupation force prohibited by UN resolution 1973 is in fact what the NATO-led war is all about, both tactically – with military ground force elements – and strategically – with the installation of a puppet terrorist-designated regime controlled by Anglo-American interests.

The offences

As a result of initiatives taken by members in the Swedish government, made possible by individuals in the Swedish parliament, and carried out by individuals in the Swedish military, the state of Sweden today shares responsibility for the transformation of the most humanitarian and successful state on the African continent into a third-world war zone run by a conglomerate of terrorist-designated rebels over which the agendas of Anglo-American intelligence and banking oligarchs cast their long shadow.

For more details on casualties, the destruction of civilian life, and civilian infrastructure brought by the military forces of Sweden and other countries, consider the Libya reports from the United Nations Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs.⁴³

Given existing international agreements and the clear violations committed by the participants of NATO's Unified Protector campaign, of the intent and boundaries set by UN Resolution 1973, it is evident that crimes falling i.a. under the following categories have been and are being committed:

1. War of aggression
2. Crimes against humanity
3. Genocide

These crimes were not the result of mission-drift or mission-swings – but were pre-mediated for the purpose of imposing regime-change in Libya in violation of international law.

⁴³ <http://www.unocha.org/top-stories/stories-by-country/results/taxonomy%3A107>, 2011-10-27.

Given the international consensus of the designation of i.a. Al-Qaeda and LIFG as "terrorists" it is also evident that the following crimes have been and are being committed by the individuals reported here:

4. Terrorism
5. Failure to report on Terrorism
6. Support of Terrorism
7. Financing of Terrorism

These MPs listed below voted in favor of the war at event 3 and later abstained:

Björlund, Torbjörn
 Brink, Josefin *
 Dinamarca, Rossana *
 Johnson, Jacob
 Linde, Hans *
 Olofsson, Eva
 Olsson, Lena
 Persson, Kent
 Sjöstedt, Jonas *
 Lillemets, Annika *

Interviews with Brink, Dinamarca, Linde, Sjöstedt, and Lillemets (marked with * above) confirm that the reason for abstaining was the realization that the Swedish government was in violation of UN resolution 1973 in its participation of the NATO-led war.⁵²

Key suspects in the Swedish military:

Suspect	Swedish SSN	Role
Göransson, Sverker	540503-4074	Commander in Chief Sweden's Armed Forces
Bergman, Fredrik	670828-2410	Commander FL01
Wilson, Stefan	670212-0210	Commander FL02
Galvér, Per	681129-1415	Commander Swedish infoop group

Reported individuals from Sweden's military establishment include the chain of command from Commander-in-chief Sverker Göransson down to all personnel part of the FL01/FL02/infoop operations . This also includes any staff-members in Sweden involved in the planning, directing and execution of these operations, as well as possibly members of units such as Special Operations Group (SOG) and the parachute regiment at K3 and which may have been involved in the clandestine parts of the war against Libya in 2011 – including the atrocities reportedly committed by French and Danish SF units.
