To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is presented to recommend and to commend the outstanding performance of Joe Trimpert on behalf of his performance representing the Sandi Group.

Working in Iraq is no easy task, yet Joe capably provided an umbrella of security for Volunteers for Economic Growth Alliance (NGO/VEGA). He worked hard to not only understand our mission, but also to promote it by ensuring the safest environment possible in a war-torn country. Further, it must be pointed out that when the VEGA compound came under attack in October 2004, Joe led his men in the ultimate sacrifice – that of putting his life and the life of his men on the line to protect VEGA's ex-patriates. I will NEVER forget, nor appreciate fully, his selflessness and absolute command of a life and death situation.

As Deputy Chief of Party, Joe worked directly for me in the capacity of professional personal security detail and as the VEGA compound chief of security overseeing a guard staff of 36 and sometimes more. His skills as a professional are superb. His thorough knowledge of his profession is awesome. Further, Joe is hard working, totally reliable, always timely, absolutely honest, and an enjoyable team player.

If I were returning to Baghdad again I would hire Joe immediately. I give my strongest recommendation for Joe. I know that he will be an asset to every individual and organization.

Please do feel free to contact me personally for further verbal confirmation of Joe's excellent driving skills.

Sincerely,

Susanne E. Jalbert, Ph.D.

To Whom It May Concern:

Please accept this letter as my recommendation of Joe Trimpert in the capacity of personal security professional. During 4Q04 and 1Q05, I served as a consultant to Volunteers for Economic Growth Alliance (VEGA). Joe served as Chief of Security for our Baghdad compound and my personal security detail when I traveled around town.

Joe created a secure living and working environment for us in Baghdad's Red Zone. Utilizing his extensive photographic documentation, Joe personally drew up plans and oversaw construction of the entire security infrastructure, including guard towers and concrete barriers, for a three-house compound, where he lived down the hall from me. He managed three teams of more than 25 Iraqi guards, whom he trained to be true professionals by teaching them basic and advanced security techniques.

Although a competent manager, Joe always took a very active role in the mundane and dangerous aspects of VEGA's security. Not content to sit at a desk, Joe spent most of the day and night patrolling the grounds and surveying the surrounding area. During the three gun and grenade attacks on the VEGA compound, it was Joe that stopped the aggressors, with precision shots into moving vehicles and unlit ground positions. He was with me during every movement I made in Baghdad, often riding in a soft-skinned vehicle, where he could better utilize his skills as a marksman. When I was in meetings in locations that necessitated him waiting outside, Joe would occasionally be in the Baghdad summer heat for hours at a time. Although under fire on several occasions, I never perceived him to be afraid. His attitude was always that he wouldn't ask someone else to do something he wasn't willing to do himself. For this, Joe earned the utmost respect of those who worked under him.

Joe's thorough preparation, keen eye for dangerous situations, constant vigilance, skilled use of a variety of weapons, ability to cultivate loyalty from others, and willingness to stand between me and potential threats protected my life and allowed me to sleep at night. I can offer no higher praise.

Sincerely,
